

African water solution drive by local company

TALBOT & Talbot recently hosted a Kenyan municipal management and business delegation.

With Talbot & Talbot's ever-expanding presence in East Africa this presented a valuable opportunity to discuss challenges in water and waste-water provision and management, available technology and resource allocation affecting Africa.

The delegation, headed by Councillor Samwel Ruto, the mayor of Eldoret, a city in western Kenya, were welcomed by Msunduzi Municipality Mayor Zanele Hlatshwayo at a cocktail function held in their honour.

With Africa facing extensive and challenging issues of water quantity, quality and distribution as well as waste-water collection, processing and disposal, this was an ideal opportunity to showcase South African infrastructure and responses. — Supplied.

Photo: SUPPLIED

ABOVE: (from left: Jacob Torut, Diru Magomere, Charles Mose, Allan Mabuka (Eldowas), Peter Bristow (Talbot & Talbot), Helen Yego (Eldowas), Tracy Grenfell (Talbot & Talbot), Reuben Tuei, Joaz Korir, George Kwedho, Samwel Chepkole (Eldowas), Francois Talbot (Talbot & Talbot director) and Councillor Samuel Rutto (mayor of Eldoret, Kenya).

